Marcia Poole – Dinner Speaker

Marcia Poole will present highlights of more than a century at the Sioux City Stockyards. She will cover the role of hogs as the “mortgage lifters” of the nation’s meatpacking industry. She will move on to the arrival of James Booge in Sioux City in 1858 and his rapid ascent as a national leader in meatpacking.

The chronology will include the arrival of the railroad in Sioux City, Booge’s move to South Bottoms, development of refrigerated technology, the rise of beef in the latter part of the 19th century and the advent of farm-to-market trucking in the early 20th century.

Poole will illuminate the connection between Lewis and Clark and the Sioux City Stockyards Company. “The connection speaks to the very heart of the interpretive center’s mission of ‘Commemorating a history of encounters,’” she says.
